Jay Gould's Enormous Wealth.

Rumors of Jay Gould's ill-health cause much speculation in regard to what effect his sudden death would have on the stock market. He is such a heavy holder of certain leading securities, which now bolster up the general list, that a possibility of their passing into other hands makes the brokers tremble at the mere anticipation. Gould has been a persistent bull since recent depression set in and has frequently been compelled to buy heavy blocks of stocks thrown upon the market by the bears to prevent a rapid decline. This policy he followed until his present holdings are simply enormous. He owns one-third of the Western Union stock, which represents a par value of nearly $27,000,000. His interest in Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Erie, Lackawanna, St. Paul, Northwestern, Omaha, Iron Mountain, St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Kansas Pacific, St. Louis and San Francisco, Elevated and other stocks is estimated by careful observers at $50,000,000, making a value of nearly $80,000,000 worth of shares. To throw these upon a market already weak would create a panic.

Oregon Railroad Extension.

Now that the winter has gone, preparations for the extension of the Oregon Division of the Central Pacific are actively going on beyond Redding. The Chinese which were taken away some time ago are being returned over the new route from Davisville to Tehama and then to Redding. Three carloads have been sent and a carload are transported each day. These are to be engaged in building wagon roads during the next six weeks, and then a very large number of men and teams will begin grading and tracklaying. One of the engineers now there states that in two or three months there will be over 5,000 laborers on the ground. Nearly 150 stone-masons and carpenters have been at work all winter, building bridges along the route beyond Redding. All of the masonry and bridges are to be of the most solid and substantial character. It is intended to make the road first-class in all respects and to complete it speedily.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has the following:

"During the recent session of Congress President Arthur made more nominations to office than have ever been made in a single session since the war, and but four or five of them were rejected by the Senate. This is more than can be said of any President, and if it means anything it means that he has been careful in his scrutiny of candidates and has made very few mistakes. Remarkable upon this a Democratic Senator said the other day: 'We have had no row over nominations this session, and the President has come nearer pleasing everybody than any of his predecessors have ever done. The only nominations he has made that were subject to criticism he has promptly withdrawn before we got a chance to reject them, and this showed that in making appointments he had no motive but to secure the services of the best men. If his selections were objectionable to the Senate he was willing to accept their judgment and not insist upon his own.' If the newspapers which have been attacking the President as the representative of the spoils system mean to be fair, they will acknowledge the President's wisdom."

The President is letting the civil service reformers have their own way in the enforcement of the law which they have secured, but even then he cannot suit them. Mr. Eaton, Chairman of the commission, asked to have ex-Naval Officer Burt, of New York, appointed Chief Examiner, and the President very promptly sent his name to the Senate, whereupon Mr. Burt, who is a great reformer, indignantly declined to accept a salary of $3,500 from the Government when he has been getting $8,000 a year. The reformers of New York are now trying to make out that Burt was insulted by the President in being nominated to such an office. Mr. Eaton has come to the President's rescue.

A Washington correspondent says Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, has been called like the portraits of St. Jerome, and his tall figure towers considerably over the average promenade. Since Senator Thurman has left the Senate he has adopted a new crouching in Senator Garland, of Arkansas, and although of different political opinions, they are inseparable companions, as are also Senators Pendleton, of Ohio, and Bayard, of Delaware.

The Bellevue Chronicle says: "Bellevue needs a good photographer, and any one who thoroughly understands that business, who will open a gallery in Bellevue, is sure to make a financial success of the enterprise."

A WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE.
What a Lady of Great Prominence Has to Say About Her Sex.

[Boston Globe.]

On a recent trip by a representative of this paper to the city of Haverhill, Mass., a most important incident occurred, which cannot fail to be of the greatest interest to all, and especially to our lady readers. The newspaper man met a lady a trifle past middle age with luxuriant white hair that contrasted strikingly with her piercing black eyes. She possessed a straight, tall habit, womanly, but commanding, combined with manner, wholly lady-like, and yet pronounced. Any acute judge of human nature could see at once that he was in the presence of an unusual personage—one destined to accomplish more than most of her sex, and to exert an influence far reaching in its power. This lady was Mrs. M. W. Wingate. Almost from childhood she has taken a special interest in the bodily troubles of her sex and has probably been more successful in relieving suffering and saving lives than any other woman in America. Indeed, she seems to have been to women what Florence Nightingale and Dorothy Dix were to the suffering soldiers. The instances of women who were in the greatest agony and apparently beyond the reach of human aid, that she has restored to health and happiness, are almost innumerable, and it was only natural that the scribe should become specially interested and wish to converse with her more in detail.

"How long have you been engaged in the practice of medicine Mrs. Wingate?"
"For more than 25 years."

"A long time certainly. How did you happen to enter the field at that early day when women in the professions were specially frowned down upon?"

"I think I must have inherited a taste from my father, Professor J. C. Wood, of Harvard college. He was eminent in the profession, a hard worker and equally earnest in his recreations. He hunted considerably and I remember when only nine years old I used to dissect the birds and animals he had killed. I felt infatuated with medical science even then, and the infatuation has continued up to the present time."

"And did you begin your studies so early in life?"

"I can hardly say when I began, for I cannot remember when I did not read medical literature. You would scarcely believe it, but I was a slender girl and did not weigh over 120 pounds but I used to sit up night after night until 2 o'clock in the morning over my studies and never dreaming of the flight of time. It seemed as though calls for my attendance on the sick always came unsolicited. I certainly cannot fix the date when I first began practicing. Of course most of my patients were women, and the natural sympathy I felt for my sex has increased during all these years where I have been brought so closely in contact with them and have learned to anticipate their needs and sympathize with their sufferings. After the opening of the Boston Medical College I appeared before the faculty; passed examination and received a diploma. I had practiced for years previous to that time but thought it desirable to receive another diploma, which I did without any effort."

"Your experience with the many and serious diseases of women having been so extensive must also be valuable? Can you give me some facts regarding them?"

"I find that woman seem born to suffering, and where she avoids it, it is by reason of some cure on her part or owing to some special renewing power. It is true some women go through life without unusual suffering, but they are now the less in danger, for there are critical periods all along their pathway when the utmost precaution is required. The innumerable complaints called female weakness; the irregularities of life and changes of the system all indicate the perils which hang over every woman's career, and which, unless attended to, may result disastrously."

"But is there no way by which these terrible troubles can be avoided?"

"That has been the problem for years. The habits of life and the demands of fashion are clearly at war with the health of women. I have been, perhaps, unusually successful in my treatment of their troubles, but there have been many cases that seemed specially stubborn. I recall one in particular. I had exhausted all the usual expedients and the results were not satisfactory. I became worried over the case and really did not know what to do, but finally thought I would try something out of the usual line. I had heard a certain remedy recommended very highly and so I procured some and made a chemical analysis of it. I found it was perfectly pure, and that the ingredients were unusually valuable. So I began giving it to my patient, changing it, however, into a bottle of my own. To my great joy it seemed to have an almost immediate result. Since then I have used it constantly in my practice and have cured every form of female weakness, as well as displacements, dropsical tumors, cellu dropsy and all such troubles. I have also used it with the best of results in cases of pregnancy and gestation. Indeed I have found it of untold value and benefit."

"Have you any objection to giving me the name of this remedy of which you speak?"

"None whatever. It is Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure."

"Why, that is a proprietary medicine!"

"Certainly, but what of that? I have but one end in view in the treatment of my patients namely—their restoration to health. In the accomplishment of this end I prescribe what I believe to be beneficial, no matter what the professional consequences may be."

"I notice in the New York papers that Doctors Hammond, Agnew and other prominent physicians are taking a similar stand Mrs. Wingate."

Ensign of the Humble family, of which she is a prominent member. After examining it closely, the reporter remarked that the medical profession evidently were proud of what she had done, as she might well be in the possession of such a medal.

"I am proud of that," she replied, "and I was also pleased a short time since to receive an offer at a large salary to take the professorship in the new medical college at Walla Walla, on the Pacific coast. I do not know how they heard of me out there, but I was obliged to decline their offer."

"And so, in your experience with the diseases of women, you have found success, and that Warner's Safe Cure has been a most efficient remedy."

"Yes, I have had unusual success and the remedy of which you speak has been proven of great benefit. There are, however, some base imitations of it to be found in the market; these are bad and should be avoided, but the genuine remedy is one of the very best."

"And has not the practice of your profession injured your health?"

"No, I am better now than ever before in my life. I froze my limbs last winter, while riding one cold night to see a patient and was obliged to remain indoors for over two months. Otherwise I am healthy, as you can see by looking at me."

"And may I publish this interview, Mrs. Wingate?"

"Yes. If what I have told you should be the means of assisting any woman who may be suffering, I shall be perfectly willing to have it published."

Senator Sherman and Henry George are the latest candidates being groomed for the Presidency.

The main line of the Northern Pacific will be completed by Sept. 1st.

An Indignant Woman.

A few days ago a lady called at the Carson Appeal office and ordered 100 visiting cards. They were finished in the new style of Carpenter script, which is considered the proper thing for that class of work. It looks exactly like a rapid style of free and easy hand writing. When the cards were handed her she looked at them a moment and said: "See here, I'm paying for printed cards and I want printed cards." The foreman assured her that they were printed.

"Don't you s'pose I can tell printing from writing. I suppose you didn't have any good type and you got Jim Chesley to write 'em. I could have done that myself. Jim Chesley will write all I want for nothing. I want printed cards I tell you."

The foreman was obliged to put the form on the press and print a dozen before her eyes before she would believe it. "Oh, ain't that lovely. I never saw anything so nice as that. You can print me a hundred more."

And she stayed by the press until the job was done, as if she thought somebody might slip in and write out one or two.

A Delay.

Owing to the immense business now being done in San Francisco by the Madison Square Theatre company, who are playing "Young Miss Winthrop," it has been deemed best to extend their stay there, and consequently the dates announced for the company's appearance here have been postponed. "Young Miss Winthrop" seems to be creating quite a furore in San Francisco. It is quite certain that the company will play to a crowded house here.

University Matters.

The new Board of Regents of the State University held a meeting at Carson yesterday and organized by electing Harry Day as President. The Board reduced the salary of the Principal to $165 per month. It also decided to dispense with the Assayer until next Fall. After auditing various bills the Board adjourned.

THE DAIRY BUSINESS.

An Important Industry of the Truckee Basin.

It is not generally known, says the Truckee Republican, that the choicest table butter used on the Pacific Coast is made in the vicinity of Truckee, during the months June, July, August and September, by dairymen who make limited quantities in the valleys in the Spring, before moving to their mountain ranges. The reason why mountain butter possesses such superiority over butter made in the valleys is because of the climate and feed, together with the greater skill of the mountain dairymen, make a combination of circumstances more favorable to its successful manufacture than can be found elsewhere on the Coast. With these dairymen the manufacture of butter is a profession. The Truckee Basin is the dairyman's heaven. The numerous valleys and dales, during the months of June, July, August, September and October, abound with the choicest native grass, and the dairymen having found this out never fails to take advantage of it. As early as the first of June the dairy rancher arrives from the Sacramento Valley, where he has wintered, bringing his drove of milk cows, his lots of choice pigs, his coops of poultry and herds of calves, and puts his ranch in order for the summer campaign. Squaw Valley, Twin Valley, Lake Valley, Russell Valley, Martis Creek Valley, Prosser Creek Valley and the numerous small valleys alight their ranches, which, when the season sets in, are occupied by old and experienced butter men, who bring all the modern appliances in the way of patent churns, improved setting pans, etc. The cows yield a bountiful supply of pure, rich milk, and grow fat, and their owners prosper. In and about Lake Tahoe are many favorite feeding spots, and there is not a nook or vale but is known to the dairyman and occupied. Close to Truckee there are fifteen or twenty dairy farms that each year send to market over 60,000 pounds of the pure article. Sardine Valley, Sierra Valley, Webber Lake range and the Valley of the Little Truckee are all favorite feeding places of the ranchmen, and their cabins and dairies dot the green meadows, and all yield good returns to the dairymen. The butter from these mountain dairies is esteemed very highly, and always brings an advanced price in the market. By the first of March the following season the supply is always exhausted, and often advanced orders eat largely into the product of the season. The regular climate, and cool nights are great desiderata in butter making, and combined with the rich properties of the mountain grasses, it is no wonder that Truckee butter should ever command a premium. Cheese factories are being talked of, and it is thought the near future will see them in active operation. At present the milk left after the butter is extracted is fed to the pigs and calves, which, by the time the season closes and the dairymen ready to depart, are ready for market, and literally "as fat as pigs." Most of them are bought up by the local butchers at good prices.

Shooting Scrape at Lewis.

On Sunday evening at about half-past 6 o'clock while J. F. Dennis was walking down Main street in the town of Lewis, in company with John P. Courtyr, upon the way to supper, James H. Darnes stepped up within a few feet of Dennis and telling him to prepare for a fight, pointed a pistol in his face. Dennis got behind Courtyr, and tried to get away, when Darnes fired, the ball passing close to Courtyr's head. Dennis retreated down the street and drawing his shooting-iron commenced firing at Darnes. Six or eight shots were fired, without injuring anybody, when the Constable arrived and took both men into custody, Dennis being immediately released on bail. From what the JOURNAL can learn, the affair was entirely unprovoked. Mr. Dennis, who is an attorney, is a peaceable citizen, and stands high in the estimation of the people amongst whom he resides.
